The term refers to the category in which words are assigned depending on how they work in a sentence. Knowing and understanding parts of speech helps children avoid grammatical errors and write more effectively. English grammar consists of eight basic parts of speech: Names: Name a person, place, thing or idea. Some examples include dog, cat, table, playground and freedom. Pronies: Replace an ale. You can use a girl instead of Billy or a vote instead. Verbs: Shows action or entity status. Verbs include the words run, look, sit, and work. Adjectives: Define or change a name or pronation. Adjectives give details such as color, size, or shape. Envelopes: Define or replace a verb, adjective, or other envelope. These words usually end up like -ly, fast, quiet and soft. Preceeds: Start phrases called preceding phrases that describe the relationship between other words in a sentence. Words such as by, to, and between are preceeds. Examples of use in a sentence include: The girl sat by the lake. The boy stood among his parents. Connects: Combine two words or phrases. The most common connectings are and, but, but, and or. Interjections: Show a strong feeling. Usually Oh! Or Hey! they are followed by an exclamation point. Try some fun activities to help your kids learn to identify each part of the conversation. An event can be using a different colored pencil for each part of the conversation and underlining them in old magazines or newspapers.
